

Security Products where only the logo is changing

Products covered by the CCN you entered will require the UL logo to be updated with logo shown above. You may click on the logo to download a copy. There are no changes to the product identification or use markings.

If your product is covered by UL for both security and signaling functions you will use the Combination Signaling and Security logo shown below. You may click on the logo to download a copy. When using the Combination Signaling and Security logo you will also be required to use the respective product identifications for both the Signaling and Security applications.
