It also provides facts about commonly abused substances and how to reduce the risks of substance abuse. Ideal learners are all employees, including managers and supervisors.
New	PS5-103059	Food Service and Distribution – HACCP Overview (US)	Food Services and Distribution Safety	Safety Catalog	0.0	The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimates that, every year, millions of people in the United States become ill from pathogens in food. The number of illnesses would be even higher if the Food and Drug Administration had not adopted a food safety program focused on preventing hazards that cause foodborne illnesses by applying science-based controls at every critical point in the process, from raw materials to finished products. This program is appropriately called Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points, or HACCP. This training provides an overview of the HACCP process. Ideal learners are anyone who works in or is associated with food service and distribution.

New	PS5-100312_LSC	Safety Orientation	0	General Safety and Manufacturing	n/a	This employee safety program is much more than an examination of set rules. It is a common-sense approach to the prevention of injuries and illness through proper training. Ideal learners are new employees.
New	PS5-102178_LSC	Fall Protection Awareness	0	Awareness; General Safety and Manufacturing; Construction	n/a	Each year, many workers are hurt or killed as a result of falls in the workplace. Falls are usually complex events that involve a variety of factors. This training will cover systems and procedures designed to prevent falls off, onto or through working levels. Ideal learners are workers who work at heights.
New	PS5-102300_LSC	Preventing Slips, Trips and Falls Awareness	0	Awareness; General Safety and Manufacturing; Construction	n/a	At best, slipping and tripping is embarrassing. Often, it leads to strains and sprains. At worst, it causes serious injury or even death. Preventing slips, trips and falls is easy, but often ignored in the daily routine of trying to get work done quickly and efficiently. This course defines slips, trips and falls and details how you can avoid them. Ideal learners include all employees.
New	PS5-102385_LSC	Confined Space Hazards Awareness	0	Awareness; General Safety and Manufacturing	n/a	If one of your co-workers passed out in a confined space, would you go in to rescue him? Can you be sure the air in the space is safe? This training will help you understand the risks associated with confined spaces. Do not take this information lightly. It can mean the difference between life and death! Ideal learners are all employees.
New	PS5-102524_LSC	Defensive Driving Awareness	0	Awareness; Transportation Safety	n/a	A split-second decision can change your life, especially when you are behind the wheel of a fast-moving, heavy vehicle. Take this course to refresh your memory about safe driving practices – particularly what you need to do before and during your drive. Ideal learners are anyone who drives cars or small vehicles.

New	PS5-102994	Heat Stress (Chinese)	General Safety and Manufacturing; Construction	General Safety and Manufacturing; Construction	1.0	It is easy to forget the danger that heat poses to the body, from sunburn and heat rash to heat stroke and death. Whether you work outside on hot days or in a foundry, mine, bakery or any other hot or humid environment, the key to preventing excessive heat stress is knowing the hazards of working in heat and the benefits of implementing proper controls and work practices. You will learn about all of these in this training. Ideal learners include all employees, managers and supervisors.

						who has the potential to be exposed to H2S at or above the exposure limit. These workers must receive this training prior to working in the toxic environment and as refresher courses on an annual basis thereafter.
New	PS5-103019	Pandemic Awareness (Spanish)	All Industries, Health and Wellness	All Industries, Health and Wellness	1.0	When an outbreak or pandemic is in the news, there is no need to panic. There are specific things you can do to protect yourself and those around you from infection. Take this course to learn about what to look for and what to do during outbreaks and pandemics. This course is ideal for all learners.
New	PS5-103007	Process Safety Management: Incident Investigation (US)	EHS Manager	EHS Manager	1.0	Companies that are subject to the Process Safety Management (PSM) regulations are required to investigate each incident that resulted in, or could have resulted in, a catastrophic release of highly hazardous chemicals in the workplace. This course illustrates the importance of investigating incidents and communicating incident reports internally to ensure that similar incidents do not occur in the future. Topics in this course include: Types of Incidents, Investigation Plan, Investigations, Collecting Data, Causes, Corrective Actions, and Incident Report. In this course, learners will learn about the different types of incidents that must be investigated, when incidents should be reported, how to prepare incident reports, how to uncover root causes, and how to establish an effective system to implement corrective actions.
New	PS5-103013	Process Safety Management: Process Hazard Analysis (US)	EHS Manager	EHS Manager	1.0	Employers should perform appropriate Process Hazard Analysis (PHA) techniques in their workplace to ensure employee safety. This course describes Process Hazard Analysis techniques as part of the Process Safety Management (PSM) series. Topics in this course include: Controlling Process Hazards, Risk Assessment, PHA Methods, HAZOP Method, FMEA Method, FTA Method, PHA Reports, and Implementation. After completing this course, learners will be able to identify what a PHA is and recognize the different types of PHAs a company can perform.

New	PS5-102953	Radiofrequency (RF) Training	General Safety and Manufacturing	General Safety and Manufacturing	1.0	Radiofrequency (RF) is an invisible energy that we use in most wireless equipment and devices, such as those for communication and heating. Although it has many important uses, RF energy also has risks that you need to understand and avoid. Take this course to learn what RF energy is, where you may find it, its hazards, how to avoid them and what to do if you've been overexposed. This course is ideal for anyone who may be exposed to RF energy.
New	PS5-102617_L SC	Office Safety Awareness	Awareness; General Safety and Manufacturing	Awareness; General Safety and Manufacturing	1.0	Although accidents involving office personnel generally occur less frequently than mishaps to industrial workers, they do still occur and can result in serious injuries and even death. Everyone is responsible for office safety. This awareness course provides information you need to work safer in your office environment. Ideal learners are all office workers.

June 2020 Course Updates

Update Type	Course Code	Course Title	Industry	Course Library	Version	Update Details
New	PS5-102453_LSC	First Aid Awareness	Awareness; Health and Wellness	Safety Catalog	n/a	Incidents requiring first aid can happen anywhere and at any time. The first response to such an incident is the most important. First aid given at the scene can improve the chances of survival and recovery of a victim. This course presents ways to respond to basic first aid situations until the emergency medical services (EMS) personnel arrive. Ideal learners are all employees.
New	PS5-102860	Rough Terrain Forklift Safety – Part 1: Readiness	Construction; General Safety and Manufacturing	Safety Catalog	n/a	The steps you take before operating a rough terrain forklift can make a huge difference in your safety during operation. Take this course to learn what rough terrain forklifts and their components are and how to make sure operators, areas, equipment and loads are properly prepared. This course is ideal for workers who will use rough terrain forklifts and their supervisors.
New	PS5-102920	Rough Terrain Forklift Safety – Part 2: Operation	Construction; General Safety and Manufacturing	Safety Catalog	n/a	Before you complete vital hands-on training about how to operate rough terrain forklifts, it's helpful to understand some basic safe practices. Take this course for tips on safely starting the forklift and avoiding collisions and tip-overs. You will also learn about lifting and parking safely. This course is ideal for workers who will use rough terrain forklifts and their supervisors.
New	PS5-102987	Process Safety Management: Contractors (US)	EHS Manager	Safety Catalog	n/a	The Process Safety Management (PSM) regulation requires host employers and contractors to work together to manage process safety. This course defines different types of contractors and reviews special safety requirements for employers at multi-employer work sites. Topics in this course include: Types of Employers, Host Employers, Contract Employers, Responsible Parties, and Working Together. After completing this course, learners will be able to identify the different types of employers on a multi-employer work site, recognize the responsibilities of host and contract employers, identify which party is responsible for safety, and identify how employers work together to protect their workers.

Update Type	Course Code	Course Title	Industry	Course Library	Version	Update Details
New	PS5-102989	Process Safety Management: Management of Change (US)	EHS Manager	Safety Catalog	n/a	Management of Change (MOC) is a program designed to identify, evaluate, and prevent chemical releases that could result from changes in processes, procedures, or equipment. This course discusses MOC requirements that are part of the Process Safety Management (PSM) regulations. Topics in this course include: Change, Purpose, MOC Procedure, Change Request Form, and Implementation. After completing this course, learners will be able to recognize how and when they must use an MOC procedure, identify the components of a successful MOC procedure, and identify how companies use implementation to make sure their MOC procedure is adequate.
New	PS5-102990	Confined Space Awareness for Construction (Spanish)	Awareness; Construction	Safety Catalog	n/a	If one of your co-workers passed out in a confined space, would you go in to rescue him? Can you be sure the air in the space is safe? This training will help you understand the risks associated with confined spaces and the procedures your employer has in place to protect you and those around you. Do not take this information lightly. It can make the difference between life and death! Ideal learners are anyone who works in or around confined spaces on construction sites.
New	PS5-102996	Heat Stress (Italian)	General Safety and Manufacturing ; Construction	Safety Catalog	n/a	It is easy to forget the danger that heat poses to the body, from sunburn and heat rash to heat stroke and death. Whether you work outside on hot days or in a foundry, mine, bakery or any other hot or humid environment, the key to preventing excessive heat stress is knowing the hazards of working in heat and the benefits of implementing proper controls and work practices. You will learn about all of these in this training. Ideal learners include all employees, managers and supervisors.
New	PS5-103002	Process Safety Management: Mechanical Integrity (US)	EHS Manager	Safety Catalog	n/a	Inadequate mechanical integrity caused by unsafe process equipment can cause catastrophic events in chemical processing facilities. This course illustrates the importance of a Mechanical Integrity Program (MIP) that companies are required to follow in compliance with Process Safety Management (PSM) regulations to help prevent catastrophic events. Topics in this course include:

Update Type	Course Code	Course Title	Industry	Course Library	Version	Update Details
						Mechanical Integrity Program, Preparation, Written Procedures, and Quality Assurance. After completing this course, learners will be able to recognize why a good MIP is important. They will also be able to identify the required elements of an MIP and recognize how to maintain the mechanical integrity of a process.
New	PS5-103003	Process Safety Management: Pre-Startup Safety Review (US)	EHS Manager	Safety Catalog	n/a	“In many organizations today, companies have been cited for noncompliance with Process Safety Management violations. One of the most frequently cited is the lack of a Pre-Startup Safety Review (PSSR) when a new or modified system is introduced into a process. This course outlines the purpose of a startup, PSSR, and the process of arranging, planning and implementing PSSRs. Topics in this course include: Pre-Startup Safety Review (PSSR), Startup Types, and Performing a PSSR. After completing this course, learners will be able to define a PSSR, differentiate the two types of startups, and identify how companies perform PSSRs.”
New	PS5-103004	Benzene Safety (US) (Canadian French)	General Safety and Manufacturing	Safety Catalog	n/a	Benzene is an aromatic hydrocarbon which is produced by the burning of natural products. It is found in gasoline and other fuels, and is used in the manufacture of plastics, detergents, pesticides, and other chemicals. Benzene is a clear, colorless liquid with a pleasant, sweet odor. The odor of benzene does not provide adequate warning of its hazard. In fact, benzene can cause serious health problems that you must understand if you work with it. This module covers the hazards of benzene and how to work safely with benzene.
New	PS5-103009	Process Safety Management: Operating Procedures (US)	EHS Manager	Safety Catalog	n/a	Operating procedures are written instructions employees follow to safely perform their jobs in process operations. This course discusses the operating procedure requirements that are part of the PSM regulations. Topics in this course include: Operating Procedures, Scope, Reviewing Procedures, New Procedures, and Proper Format. After completing this course, learners will be able to identify operating procedures, identify how operating procedures manage the risks and hazards associated with covered processes, and recognize how to develop operating procedures.

New	PS5-103010	Electrical Safety and Lockout/Tagout (LOTO) (French)	General Safety and Manufacturing	Safety Catalog	n/a	Working with electricity can be dangerous. Workers performing service or maintenance on machinery and equipment may be injured by the unexpected startup of the machinery or equipment, or release of stored electrical energy in the equipment. In fact, failure to lock out machinery before working on it is a major cause of injury and death. These deaths and injuries can be prevented by establishing and following an effective lockout/tagout program. This training will tell you more about electrical hazards, safe practices when working with electricity, and the lockout/tagout program and how it can save your life. Ideal learners are any employee who works on or around electrical machinery.
New	PS5-103011	Process Safety Management: Overview (US)	EHS Manager	Safety Catalog	n/a	Unexpected releases of toxic, reactive, and flammable liquids and gases have caused great harm and numerous deaths. Such events underscore the need for better industry practices and safety management controls. This course introduces the structure of a process safety management (PSM) program for processes involving highly hazardous chemicals. Topics in this course include: Application of PSM, Elements of a PSM Program, and Employee Involvement. After completing this course, learners will be able to recognize the components of a PSM program, the companies and processes that fall under PSM regulations, and the importance of employee involvement in a PSM program. This is the first in a series of courses on process safety management.
New	PS5-103012	Fall Protection (Canadian French)	General Safety and Manufacturing ; Construction	Safety Catalog	n/a	Each year, many workers are hurt or killed as a result of falls in the workplace. Falls are usually complex events that involve a variety of factors. This training will cover systems and procedures designed to prevent falls off, onto or through working levels and to protect workers from being struck by falling objects. Ideal learners include all workers.

New	PS5-103014	Process Safety Management: Process Safety Information (US)	EHS Manager	Safety Catalog	n/a	In order to understand the hazards associated with a chemical process, documentation relating to the process must be gathered. This data provides the basis for developing process hazard analyses, preparing operating and maintenance procedures, training, performing incident investigations, and managing changes as they occur. This course discusses process safety information (PSI) that is part of the Process Safety Management (PSM) regulations. Topics in this course include: Process Safety Information, Chemicals, Technology, Flow Diagrams, Equipment, and Participation. After completing this course, learners will be able to identify PSI, and recognize the three main PSI categories along with the specific data gathered within them.
New	PS5-103017	Process Safety Management: Training (US)	EHS Manager	Safety Catalog	n/a	The root cause of many accidents can be traced back to inadequate communication and employee training. This course discusses training as part of the Process Safety Management (PSM) series and presents information on the training requirements for employees working in process industries. Topics in this course include: Requirements, Responsibilities, Training Types, and Refresher Training. After completing this course, learners will be able to recognize the training requirements of the PSM regulations, identify what kind of training employers should provide, recognize the different training methods that might be used, and identify training documentation requirements.
New	PS5-30115	Rough Terrain Forklift Safety, Parts 1-2	Construction; General Safety and Manufacturing	Safety Catalog	n/a	Hands-on training about the equipment and areas in which you will operate rough terrain forklifts is vital to workplace safety. To prepare for your hands-on instruction, you can take these courses to learn about important practices for avoiding site and equipment hazards and operating errors. These courses are ideal for workers who will use rough terrain forklifts and their supervisors.
